"GREASE THE RAILS" SAYS THE SUPER

IT IS some time since the Bonanza has expressed any criticism of the board of county commissioners and its legal adviser, the district attorney, by name Sanders. This does not lead to the inference that the Bonanza has not been watching the progress of events. It has full knowledge and is able to produce figures to prove that the board has fiddled away the money of the tax payers. Perhaps it may later adduce facts to show that there is criminal maladministration and misadministration of public affairs, but the time for this allegation has not yet been reached.

If Mr. Marsh were to fully assert himself and be actually the chairman of the board, conditions might be improved. It is regrettable that "Dark Lantern" has been permitted to assume powers which he does not possess under the law. His signature on requisitions, for instance, is positively illegal and if he had the property interests that would equalize certain transactions, they would probably be levied upon in order to restore to the county the money of which it has been despoiled.

Property owners wonder why the board authorized "I'm It" to go to Carson City and obtain from the commission the permission to borrow $17,000, when Nye county is under no unusual expenditure nor burdened with debt not acquired under the present administration. It is also a matter due for investigation that the tax rate for the general fund was raised 15 cents by the board, while, at the same time, the valuation was increased nearly $2,000,000.

The people of Nye county, the property owners, have been long suffering and have shown tender mercy. It develops that they have permitted the chairman of its board of commissioners to delegate his duties to an incompetent in the matter of protecting his own personal interests, while the district attorney has placed the burdens of his office largely upon the shoulders of a young man who is conscientious and shows indications of capability, although he was not elected to office by the people and would not hold his position if the district attorney, by name Sanders, did not devote his time to private practice instead of attending to the duties for which he is paid and to which he was elected.

One of the most flagrant derelictions of duty on the part of the board was its disrespect for the state law in the enactment of an ordinance for the closing of Corona avenue to prostitution. There was no publicity attached to the matter. At least there was not sufficient publicity. The chairman of the board did not sign the ordinance. "Let Dick do it," is what he probably said. The justice of the peace endeavored to put the ordinance in force, which was not a credit to the intelligence of that officer. Judge Averill promptly overruled the lower court. Again the ordinance was illegally enacted and again it was supported by the justice and again it was declared of no effect by the fifth judicial district court.

Now it appears that the ordinance has been for a third time enacted. Judge Averill suggested to the board that it be given the greatest publicity possible. Mr. Marsh favored the idea, but "Dark Lantern" and "Chuck-hole" were advised by "I'm It" and the people will not be informed as to the nature of the ordinance. This is one that is contrary to the law of the state. It enforces the closing of a certain district and leaves another, but 300 feet away, wide open. If it is illegal to practice prostitution on Corona avenue, that does not legalize it on St. Patrick street. If vice may exist on one thoroughfare, why should there be an attempt to eliminate it on another?

Really and truly the Bonanza cannot get away from the idea that the people who are financially interested in having prostitution legalized on one street and abolished on another have used influence and possibly money to have this brought about. It is a grave situation and one that should be investigated most thoroughly. The board of county commissioners and the district attorney, by name Sanders, have been so diligent in this matter that there is but one conclusion—GREASE.

THE PRESIDENT'S DELUSION

HAVING matters on his hands so engrossing as the German controversy, together with the Mexican situation with its day by day threat of violent explosion in new as well as the standard centers of riot, it is hardly surprising that the president has been opposed to plunging into the subject of tariff revision in the coming session of congress.

It would seem that he is still unconvinced that this tariff is in need of revision; that he still discredits its ill effects on the business of the country up to the time of the outbreak of the war, and that he still has faith in its sufficiency as a revenue producer and as a stimulant to prosperity through incitement to higher skill and better methods in American industrial activities.

The sooner this delusion gets out of the president's head, the better for the United States. The new conditions and new complications arising from the war and the world-wide disturbance of the balance of manufacturing trade present an unexampled opportunity. People are beginning to see what prompt action and judicious protective legislation in the matter of the dyestuffs industry might do for this country. The dyestuffs industry is a single illustration only of the great trade advantages which the situation promises.

The tariff is an inseparable factor. Use it promptly, fearlessly, and as skillfully and legitimately as Bismarck used it forty years ago, and the wheels of American industry will spin as they never spun before.

WATCH THE OUTSIDE DISTRICTS

A GAIN the Bonanza calls attention to the worth of the outside districts as a tangible asset to Tonopah. The business interests here seem to overlook the benefits that would accrue to them if the prospects in the outlying neighborhoods were to be developed.

All the gold and silver in the world does not lie within the metes and bounds of the Tonopah district, although they are unparalleled in the world today. Elsewhere nature has flung the rocks and has filled the crevices with the gangue metals that comprise ore. When Mt. Brougher trembled and the surrounding country vibrated the foundation was laid for the Tonopah ore zone, but outlying districts also had their seismic convulsions, their fractures, their enrichment and their re-enrichment. They are worthy of consideration. Good business sense demands that they be considered. The Goldsmith strike may prove to be to Tonopah what Silver City or Gold Hill was to the Comstock. There is no occasion to deprecate the strikes that are made on the outside, but those who are laboring and searching there should be encouraged.

CLIPPED AND CREDITED

If faith will move mountains, why not try it on that landslide in the Panama canal?—Florida Times-Union.

"If I go to Europe," says Mr. Bryan, "it will be at my own expense." That settles it—he won't go.—Cleveland Leader.

Anna Pavlova advises those who would become graceful dancers to watch the swan. Ever see a swan dance?—Toledo Blade.

Dirty Patagonia.

"Patagonians are not giants, as some have supposed and as the geographers teach," said a man who has traveled. "They are large in comparison with the other South American natives; that is all. Everything is relative, you know. But they are very fat. That is why they can stand the cold so well. I have seen Patagonian men and boys running around naked while I was wrapped in warm garments, with the snow falling upon them in quantities and the wind blowing bitterly. They are kept warm by their fat and dirt. Patagonia is one of the dirtiest places imaginable. Don't go there if you hate dirt. That is my advice to all who contemplate a journey to the jumping off place of South America."

Just the Other Way.

Frost—it cost me $75 for the week end. Snow—Entertaining friends, weren't you? Frost—Great Scott, no! Being entertained.—Life.

It is said that over 10,000,000 women in this country shop daily, 90 per cent of whom are influenced through advertising to buy a certain article or go to a certain store; hence when a small dealer tells you that advertising doesn't pay, you will find, nine times out of ten, that not only his advertising but his store methods are faulty. He is, very likely, a spasmodic advertiser. He is operating without any particular plan or policy. In short, he is a hot and cold proposition, pretty much like the old rooster in the snow, standing first on one foot, then on the other, trying to avoid getting cold feet, where if he used both feet at the same time, he would get to some place where there wasn't any snow. The advertiser who uses the Daily Bonanza consistently has insured his success.

A Holiday Forethought

It may seem a little early to talk about Christmas—but the time is at hand for us to begin planning for holiday trade. We are now making selections of holiday goods from many sources.

The European war will cause a shortage in some lines of imported goods, but ingenious American manufacturers have been busy, so there will be no dearth of holiday goods.

Dear friends, we have been doing some thinking and planning for you, and that in about four weeks we will have an interesting line of gift goods for your inspection.
